SPACE FORCE SSC CYBER SERIES

- Vandenberg SFB
- Patrick SFB
- Peterson SFB
- Los Angeles SFB

OVERVIEW

The Space Systems Command (SSC) and the United States Space Force (USSF) proudly present the 2026 Space Force SSC Cyber Series – a four-event initiative connecting U.S. government, military, and industry cybersecurity leaders.

Cybersecurity and technology companies are invited to participate as exhibitors in this exclusive series designed to strengthen collaboration on cyber innovation, mission assurance, and operational readiness across the Space Force enterprise.

Each event will feature senior leaders, technical experts, and panelists addressing cyber defense innovation, emerging threats, operational resilience, and modernization initiatives vital to safeguarding the U.S. Space Force's mission in the digital domain.

Hundreds of Department of Defense personnel are expected to attend each onsite event.

PREVIOUS SPEAKERS INCLUDE

- Mr. John Gartska, Platform and Weapon Portfolio Management (PWPM) Senior Executive Service (SES), Director of Cyber Warfare
- Ms. Chandra Donelson, USSF Chief Data and Artificial Intelligence Officer (CDAO)
- Mr. Mike Schripsema, SSC/S2
- Col Frank, SSC/S6 Director
- Col Mihalko, SSC/S6 Chief of Staff
- Mr. Bartley Stewart, SSC Chief Data and AI Officer
- Mr. Seth Whitworth, USSF/S6 Deputy Director
- Mr. Christopher Hicks, USSF SpOC Delta 6/S6

PARTICIPATING LOCATIONS

Vandenberg Space Force Base February 26, 2026

Situated on California's central coast near Lompoc, Vandenberg Space Force Base spans 98,000 acres and 42 miles of coastline. Its host unit, Space Launch Delta 30 (SLD 30), manages all West Coast launch and missile-test operations in support of the Space Force, DoD, NASA, and commercial partners. Vandenberg supports both government and private-sector launch missions, including Atlas V, Falcon 9, and Minotaur, and plays a vital role in missile-defense testing and space-domain operations.

Patrick Space Force Base March 4, 2026

Located along Florida's Space Coast between Satellite Beach and Cocoa Beach, Patrick Space Force Base is home to Space Launch Delta 45 (SLD 45) and serves as the DoD's East-Coast spaceport. SLD 45 manages the Eastern Range, coordinating launch operations at nearby Cape Canaveral Space Force Station and providing flight-safety, instrumentation, and scheduling services for government and commercial missions. With a legacy dating back to 1940, Patrick SFB supports more than 70 mission partners and remains a vital link between military, commercial, and allied space-launch operations.

Peterson Space Force Base April 9, 2026

Located in Colorado Springs, Colorado, Peterson Space Force Base is home to Space Base Delta 1 and major commands including United States Space Command (USSPACECOM) and Space Operations Command (SpOC). As a hub for operational command, intelligence, and mission execution, Peterson SFB plays a crucial role in space situational awareness, cyber defense integration, and joint operations across the Department of Defense and allied forces.

Los Angeles Space Base April 21–23, 2026

Located in El Segundo, California, Los Angeles Space Force Base is the only active-duty military installation in the Los Angeles area. It hosts two primary DoD organizations: Space Base Delta 3 (SBD 3) and Space Systems Command (SSC).

SBD 3 manages installation support, logistics, communications, and security for over 7,000 personnel. SSC – headquartered on base – serves as the U.S. Space Force's acquisition and development arm, overseeing multi-billion-dollar programs in satellite communications, GPS, launch operations, space superiority systems, and sustainment. Together, they make Los Angeles SFB a key hub for U.S. national security space acquisition and industry collaboration.
